

2025
YEAR IN REVIEW

Neil Itzen

FROM THE CEO

I want to personally thank you for supporting Grange Co-op. Whether you rely on our fertilizer operations, feed mill, or our farm stores throughout Southern Oregon and Northern California, your support strengthens our entire co-op and the communities we proudly serve.

This past year, we set ambitious goals for 2025, and I am proud to share that we achieved them by staying true to Our Purpose: helping our employees, customers, and communities achieve more together. One of our largest investments was in the feed mill, supported by a USDA Organic Market Development Grant. These improvements will allow us to produce higher volumes of feed more efficiently, ensuring we can meet the needs of even more customers in the years ahead. We also celebrated the opening of our Redding, CA store in August, which has already seen very positive results. And to make shopping with us even easier, we expanded our Grange on the Go services—including curbside, in-store pickup, and drive-through options.

In today's world, customers have countless choices—from national online retailers to local competitors. Yet I firmly believe Grange Co-op stands apart in two essential ways. First, we are committed to our exceptional employees and their ongoing development. Their dedication to friendly, knowledgeable service defines who we are. Second, we remain deeply rooted in the communities we serve. Our support of junior livestock auctions, 4-H and FFA programs, animal rescues, and many other local organizations reflects that commitment.

I am incredibly proud of what we accomplished together in 2025—and grateful for the trust and support you continue to place in us. Grange Co-op is committed to your success today and well into the future.

Warmly,

Neil Itzen - Chief Executive Officer

PUTTING THE 'CO-OP' IN GRANGE CO-OP

Over 90 years ago, our company's humble origins began in Southern Oregon. Among the bustling agricultural communities within the Rogue Valley, ninety-nine farmers and ranchers came together to pool funds and purchase resources, including oil tanks and buildings, in Central Point. Members of any local grange benefited from reduced prices and accessibility, and in that year Grange Co-op was essentially born. Since the beginning, our co-operative principles have guided everything from our retail expansion to community give-back. Barely a year after forming, the Grange Co-op had developed a fuel delivery business, and within the next two decades they would expand to our first retail location, build a warehouse, construct the landmark feed mill and grain elevator in Central Point, and open up membership to the community at large.

Grange Co-op's purpose of helping our communities, customers, and employees achieve more together has always been at the forefront of the Board's decision making. As a member-owned cooperative, we are dedicated to improving the lives of others through excellence in service and trusted experience. Our Board of Directors is instrumental in guiding our cooperative, and they are chosen amongst the roster of registered agricultural members who are recognized as commodity producers in the regions we serve. This democratic leadership that has defined Grange Co-op for almost a century is what has helped grow our company into a multi-million dollar business that is still characterized by a commitment to serving our agricultural communities.

NEW FIELD SALES REPRESENTATIVE

Grange Co-op is committed to strengthening the support we provide to farmers and ranchers throughout the regions we serve. As part of that commitment, we are pleased to introduce our new Field Sales Representative, Carson Collier.

Carson brings a strong foundation in agriculture, holding a Meat Animal Science Degree from the University of Wisconsin and extensive hands-on experience in ranching. He also contributes knowledge from his family's local business, Shasta View Genetics, giving him a practical understanding of the challenges and opportunities facing today's producers.

We hired Carson to enhance the level of service and support we offer our Ag Members. His role is dedicated to meeting with the producers in the communities we serve, learning about their operations, and helping connect them with products and services that best support their goals. Whether it is fertilizer, livestock feed, or farm & ranch supplies, Carson will serve as a knowledgeable resource and direct point of contact. We look forward to the value Carson will bring to our members and to the future of agriculture in our region!

CELEBRATING LOCAL TRADITIONS & NEW BEGINNINGS

COWBOYS, CATTLE, AND COMMUNITY

Grange Co-op's commitment to attending the Red Bluff Bull & Gelding Sale felt ever more heartening, once the announcement of our new store had reached the ears of Shasta and Tehama counties. This year the weather was unseasonably but blissfully warm and helped encourage over 30,000 visitors to peruse 'one of the largest trade shows in the West', which we are proud to help sponsor. We look forward to a continued partnership with this long-standing tradition and congratulate the organizers on continuing 85 years of Northern Californian heritage.

FOUNDATIONS BUILT TO LAST

We continued to build buzz and meet future customers at the annual Redding Home Show. Our associates demonstrated the expansive number of departments we planned to have stocked in our new soon-to-be-open location, including pet, farm & ranch, western apparel, hardware, and more. Several of our renowned directors and managers were on hand to talk about what we offer in the Redding area, including our premium Rogue feed. Not satisfied with just ONE show, our crew also attended the Spring Home & Garden Expo in Anderson, an expo locally owned and operated for 40 years, as well as the Redding Sportsman's Expo!

SADDLIN' UP FOR THE MANE EVENT

Grange Co-op has been a proud sponsor of both the Redding Rodeo and Red Bluff Round-up for multiple years. These historic regional events have been featuring the toughest riders in the country for decades. The Redding Rodeo, celebrating its 78th year in 2026, is a stop on the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association (PRCA) circuit, and the nearly week-long event includes fundraisers, mutton bustin', a parade, and of course the rodeo itself! The Red Bluff Round-Up, the largest three-day rodeo in the country, celebrates 105 years of bucking good times and helps raise over $350,000 for local organizations through the hard work of organizers, volunteers, and a bevy of fundraising events.

THE WAIT IS OVER

Since announcing our newest location all the way back in June 2024, folks have been eagerly asking WHEN our doors would first open to the public. Finally, after many months of hard work and a great deal of hustling from everyone throughout the company, our Redding location celebrated its Grand Opening on August 15th, 2025! Our CEO Neil Itzen said it best: "We are thrilled to bring Grange Co-op to Redding, California ... The community has consistently expressed a strong interest in having us here, and we're proud to finally open our doors. Redding feels like home." We were joined by several new friends and neighbors, including the Redding Chamber of Commerce, Shasta Lake Chamber of Commerce, Shasta County CattleWomen, Shasta College, Redding Rodeo, Purina, Vitakraft, and many more. We are honored by your support and look forward to many more years of partnership!

BLUE JACKETS MAKE FOR BRIGHT FUTURES...

Grange Co-op has been a proud sponsor of Oregon FFA Foundation for years. As part of that contribution, we work with the Foundation to facilitate a grant program providing financial opportunities for chapters' growth and development. This year, we are proud to announce a mirrored program with the California FFA Foundation. In our inaugural launch this past fall, we chose several chapters out of many submissions, whose projects range from forestry to raised bed gardening, outdoor classes to on-campus farming infrastructure. Stay tuned for further updates and watch for our monthly Community Newsletters so you can see what these awesome chapters in Oregon and California are developing in a community near you!

...AND BRIGHT FUTURES GROW STRONG LEADERS

We were honored to be invited to a Leadership Camp, attended by chapters from Josephine, Jackson, Klamath, and Lake counties. Associates spoke on how many skills learned by dedicated FFA participation work hand-in-hand with building the character that employees look for. Beyond the professionalism expected by FFA, students are often known for their stewardship, perseverance, and of course teamwork, and highlight just one of the many reasons why employers (including Grange Co-op) look for FFA experience when hiring! Thank you, advisors, for inviting us to join your camp for the day.

BLUE CHRISTMAS LIGHTS THE WAY FOR FFA

Now in its second year, Grange Co-op's Blue Christmas fundraiser has raised over $15,000 for Oregon and California FFA since its initial campaign. During the months of November and December, customers had the opportunity to purchase a paper jacket for $1, $5, $10, or even $50 values, and join the wall of other contributors. As part of this fundraiser, our stores were encouraged to go all-out with decorations, creating festive displays celebrating the future farmers in our communities! We cordially invite you to join us next winter to make another Blue Christmas for local FFA!

A PICTURE-PERFECT POT-A-PLANT DAY

Our annual planting day event brings in customers from all over – folks eager to kick-start the growing season and enjoy some good gardening company. This year we were fortunate to have FFA chapters from Hidden Valley, Prospect, Phoenix, and Lost River, along with Hallwood 4-H, join us to help customers get their spring containers planted! Despite the copious amounts of spilled dirt, it's all good clean fun at our annual Pot-a-Plant event!

ART IN BLOOM BRIGHTENS DOWNTOWN MEDFORD

Budding once again, the Art in Bloom Festival returned to Downtown Medford—bringing vibrant color, creativity, and community spirit! Grange Co-op was honored to take part in the 20th annual Art in Bloom festival, where attendees enjoyed a lively mix of fine art, flowers, and local fare. We hosted a hands-on planting station where kids (and the young at heart) could pot a bright flower to take home—a cheerful reminder of growth and new beginnings. It was wonderful to see so many of you there, and we look forward to even more blooming faces next year!

PAINTED POTS AND HAPPY HEARTS

There's something timeless about the connection between mothers and flowers—both have a way of brightening our lives, bringing joy, and reminding us of love that endures through every season.

For years, Grange Co-op honors this bond by hosting a free Paint-a-Pot event. Children are invited to decorate a flowerpot and plant a seedling as a gift to their mom - a heartfelt, handmade token of appreciation for Mother's Day.

To all the moms out there who fill our lives with care, color, and love: Thank you!

THE SPRING GARDEN FAIR GROWS AT THE EXPO

Sometimes the most rewarding blooms are the ones we wait the longest for. After several years, the Jackson County Master Gardener Association's annual Spring Fair was back at the Expo! Over 2,000 folks turned out to the association's prodigal return to the Jackson County fairgrounds, shopping the array of vegetables, annual flowers, and native plants grown and nurtured by this year's graduating class, under the watchful eye of Master Gardener mentors. Several other vendors were selling as well, including Grange Co-op! Hope to catch you at next year's Spring Fair!

ROOTED IN COMMUNITY, ROLLING IN PARADES

As we do every year, Grange Co-op participated in several local parades and community gatherings. These celebrations highlight the spirit of the holiday as well as the camaraderie with our friends, family, and neighbors.

The Pear Blossom parade kicks off our season of many steps in April; it was sunshine and smiles as we joined hundreds of entries in the procession through Downtown Medford. Not long after, Grants Pass celebrated Boatnik on Memorial Day weekend. One highlight of the celebration, besides the famous jet boat races, is the Boatnik Parade. Not long after, both our White City and Central Point stores joined their respective communities' Independence Day parades. Our crew at the new Redding store has been able to get involved too, joining several local events including the Shasta Lake Veteran's Day parade, and Redding Lighted Christmas Parade.

Keep an eye out; you may see a Grange Co-op truck in your next parade too!

PAINT-A-PUMPKIN

This autumnal event is another seasonal favorite, and despite the gloomy weather, kids of all ages joined us to paint up an adorable pumpkin of their own. Some go for the ornate, others for the chaotic, and without fail, at least one pumpkin every year one gets done up in all black. It has practically become a tradition at this point, and honestly, the spooky touch feels just right!

LITTLE BRUSHSTROKES, BIG TALENT AT THE HARVEST FESTIVAL

Another first for Grange Co-op, we joined the festivities at the Talent Harvest festival, along with over 9,000 attendees. This little town packs a big talented punch, and we wanted to celebrate the creativity of our communities with a free activity for families. Volunteers helped kids plant up a viola or pansy start, in their most festive fall or Halloween colors of course. If they wanted, young ones could also paint a jack-o'-lantern face with non-toxic paint. That was sure to provide a spooky treat until the treat (pot and all) was ready to be planted at season's end.
