CREATE YOUR OWN
HANGING BASKET

GRANGEKnows

A hanging basket is a beautiful touch to accent any home and garden. With a variety of plant combinations available at your local Grange Co-op, you can arrange an eye-catching basket in just a couple minutes. Reference the video included to see just how easy it is to arrange your own basket or read more in the details below.

Choose the type of plants you prefer for the space the basket will be hung. It's important to choose plants that are collectively tolerant to either heat, shade, or both, depending on your choice location. While you want a variety of plant types in your basket, it's important to make sure all are cohesive and will thrive together in the environment they are placed.

When choosing your plants, note the full-grown size and shape on their plant tag. Depending on the type of look you prefer, a combination of clumping plants with trailing plants can create a mixture of color and texture that will create an eye-catching basket well into the growing season. It's important to recognize a common mistake when creating hanging baskets: over planting your basket. Referencing our video, you'll see Kraig is using a 14" basket and planting 3 Calibrachoa starts in it. Each plant will grow very large and you want to avoid overcrowding for the health and overall appearance of your basket.

Next, if your space allows it, the larger the basket, the more volume of water your plants will hold. Because a larger basket holds more soil, it will retain more water, meaning the less frequently you'll need to water your plants. In the heat of summer, small baskets can not only require watering daily, but possibly multiple times a day.
