THE ESSENTIAL GUIDE TO CONTAINER PLANTING: SOIL, POTS, AND FOOLPROOF PAIRINGS

GRANGEKnows

Not everyone has a 'back 40' to cultivate the garden of their dreams—a lot of us must make do with gardening where we can and when we can! Thankfully, container gardening is a perfectly viable option that can give even the smallest spaces a splash of color and bring us natural joy. If planned right, you can have fresh flowers blooming in your small outdoor spaces all year round!

Successful container gardening starts with the right container—while you can plant in just about anything that will hold soil, some materials will be more practical than others depending on your circumstances.

- Terra cotta pots are a time-tested option—the porous containers help wick away excess moisture and aren't excessively heavy, but their capacity to hold moisture in the ceramic material makes them susceptible to frost damage.
- Glazed ceramic pots are much tougher, but with that comes additional weight and often a higher price. The glass-like enamel does resist scratching and minor frost cracking, but damage due to exceedingly cold temperatures is still possible.

- Metal pots have made a surge in popularity—they often take on a unique patina as they age in the elements, not unlike terra cotta, and are often much lighter than ceramic alternatives. However, they can also heat up in the summer sun, so would-be gardeners should be thoughtful of what plants are going in these and where, to prevent summer heat stress to tender seedlings.
- Wooden planter boxes are also great planting options; their size and shapes can make them less adjustable than smaller containers but like ceramic material, their porosity can help wick away excess moisture.

NEW

Rogue BEEF FINISHER

AVAILABLE IN 50 LB. BAGS AND TOTES

CONGRATULATIONS TO WHITE RANCH ANGUS OF JACKSONVILLE, ORI

Their operation captured Reserve Supreme Bull and Champion Angus honors at the 2026 Red Bluff Bull & Gelding Sale—an incredible achievement and a testament to the quality and dedication behind their program.

We're proud that they selected our New Rogue Beef Finisher as part of their nutrition strategy. This premium ration delivers balanced energy, 12% protein, and added roughage for optimal rumen stability—formulated to promote outstanding condition, consistent growth, and a smooth, show ready finish from daily performance all the way to the ring.

A Grange Co-op Field Sales Representative is a trusted partner in your ranch's day-to-day operations, bringing local expertise, dependable service, and practical solutions to help you keep livestock healthy and your operation running efficiently. With access to fresh, locally produced Rogue Quality Feeds - manufactured at Southern Oregon's only certified organic feed mill and available in sacked and bulk options for cattle, horses, sheep, goats, hogs, and poultry - your representative can recommend a nutrition program tailored to your herd's specific needs. They can also connect you with trusted supplement brands such as Purina and Rogue Quality Feeds supplements, ensuring your animals receive balanced nutrition at every stage of production. Beyond feed and supplements, your Field Sales Representative can help you source high-quality fencing, gates, and panels from respected brands like Red Brand, Powder River, and H&W, along with a full range of ranch essentials from Grange Co-op's extensive farm and ranch selection - helping you maintain secure, efficient working facilities and pastures. In addition, they can guide you through fertilizer solutions, including Rogue Fertilizers and custom blends, to support forage performance, pasture health, and overall land productivity, with access to bulk purchasing options through Grange Co-op's Ag Services and Professional Products Department.

With personalized support and deep local knowledge, your Field Sales Representative helps simplify procurement and keep your ranch operating smoothly year-round.

Grange Co-op is proud to have Carson Collier on our team, bringing his expertise to the role of Field Sales Representative. Carson holds a Meat Animal Science degree from the University of Wisconsin and comes from a strong ranching background through his family's business, Shasta View Genetics. He's passionate about building relationships with local farmers and ranchers, learning about their operations, and helping connect them with the right Grange Co-op products and services – from fertilizer and livestock feed to farm and ranch supplies.
